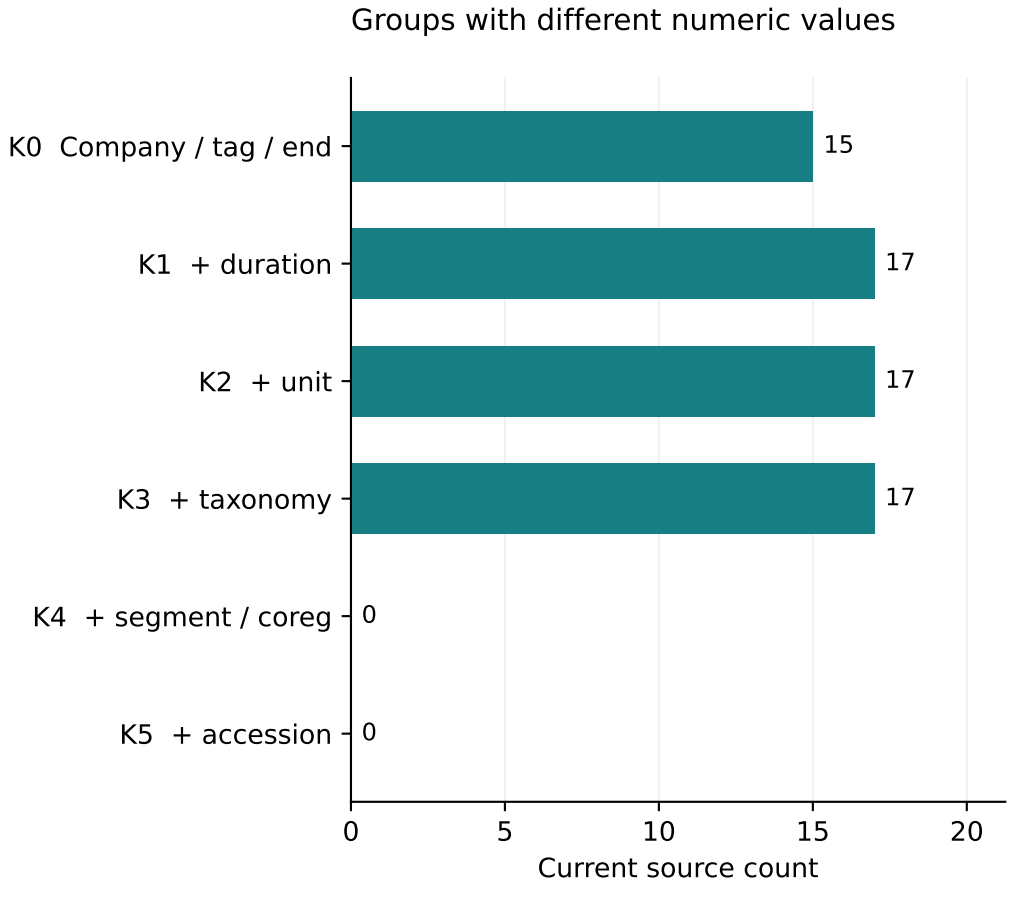
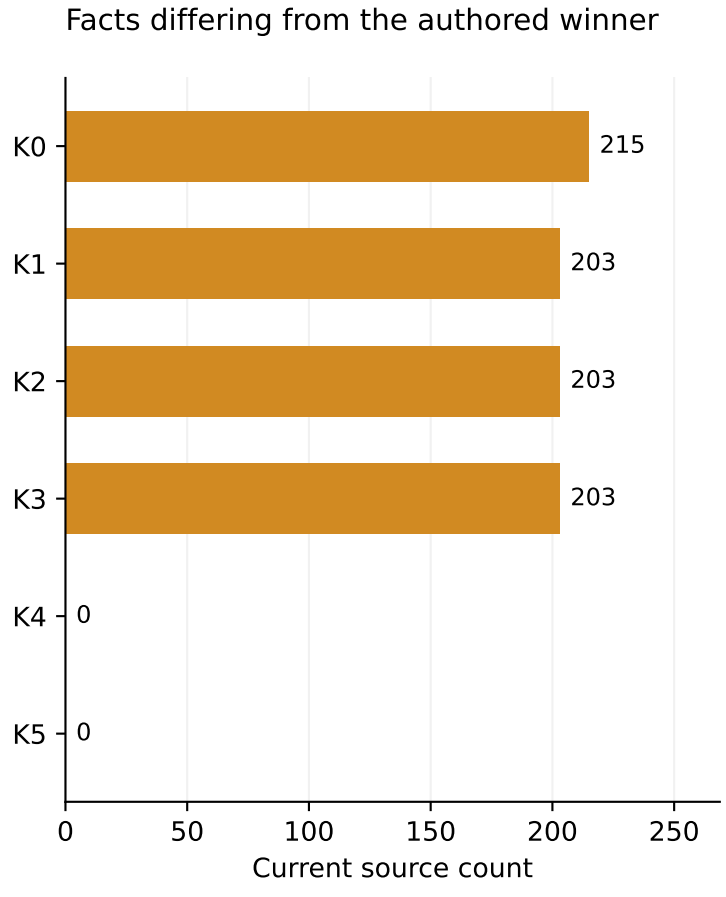
Different numeric values can describe different quantities

Authored naive-winner simulation; different durations or dimensions do not establish a formal restatement





Conflicting-group count need not fall at every step: adding duration can split one mixed group into several conflicting groups.